His pieces were well received widely and featured in a post-release of the art show spotlighting the galleries with the highest sales records.

Peter Triantos accepted interviews by Much Music Traveller and Omni TV, where he shared his magical stories about artistry and philanthropy.

What's more, Peter's passionate art class inspired students from the Royal St. George's College, Toronto's leading boys' private day school, where he also donated his dynamic artwork.

Last month, Peter Triantos was happy to donate a spectacular piece to The Canadian Foundation for AIDS Research this year again and his artwork was sold for $10,000, the highest amount for the auctioned artworks and the 2nd highest among the whole items! Moreover, we are thrilled to announce Peter Triantos' upcoming projects for the new year! In this spring, his spectacular artworks will be exhibited at the luxurious Hotel X, and he will collaborate with Toronto Fashion week and Harry Rosen.
