PETER TRIANOTOS TAKEOVER

Canadian artist Peter Triantos has been taking over the Toronto art scene with his one-of-a-kind vibrant new collection. Peter Triantos Art Galleries continue to grow, most notably with the new location in the InterContinental Hotel just across the street from the Royal Ontario Museum.

Peter's newest and most popular collection are reflections of the artist's character and presence. 'Splash of Colour II' and 'Jelly Beans' are energetic, positive and playful by nature. This spectacular series is vibrant, bold, and on larger scales even alludes to the movement the artist used to create the work of art. The Jewish Review Magazine also recognises his phenomenal work and mentions, "He is truly a one-of-a kind contemporary abstract artist with remarkable creative talent." The new Summer 2017 issue showcases a four page spread on Peter's iconic works and will be available soon.

The 'Jelly Beans' Series has been a huge hit since it launched recently. "When i was a small boy i loved popsicles, I guess it was the colours that got me banana, grape, lemon even chocolate. Years later I look at the splash of colour series and I guess I could have called it the popsicle series." This stunning series exclusively stands alone with its great colour palette while remaining simultaneously youthful and sophisticated. This series pleases both the art lover and newbie as first-time buyers invest in the collection.

Although still extremely busy and devoted, Peter's most notable artwork to date was a commission done for a wonderful returning client. At a massive 192" by 84", he accomplished an incredibly stunning 'Splash of Colour II' where free flowing movement and breathtaking colour combined to bring to life a statement piece to be talked about.

"I am forever thankful that I am doing what really makes me happy. I mean at age 56, I fly out of my bed in the morning eager to get to my studio! Love my profession as an artist."

Our friends could not have been more pleased with the astonishing piece that Peter completed with ease and dedication. "Happy friends and clients always make my hard work feel easy. So blessed to meet such amazing people thanks to the art," is how Peter best describes managing his busy schedule. It's the joy his works bring into homes that keeps him going. His beautiful artwork derives from the great love that he has for art.

With an opening show this coming summer and new locations, it's clear that the praise of Peter Triantos has expanded well beyond the Toronto community as compliments pour in from around the world. His diverse contemporary artworks have attracted many audiences and even captivated the curators of the George Berges Gallery in Soho, New York City where Peter's pieces were exhibited during New York Fashion Week last year.

Peter doesn't fall short on sharing the creating process either! Last year, Peter was happy and honoured to have the Marchar Art Day exhibition where fans & friends were excited to be able to watch Peter paint and acquired a few pieces at his studio. They were instantly drawn to Peter's artistic energy and incredible talent. Peter was happy to donate some profits to the Children Health Woman (CHW) project in Canada.

With four gallery locations in downtown Toronto, friends, fans and colleagues alike are itching with anticipation for what the future holds for the artist. We welcome anyone to stop by to see these captivating pieces in person!

Peter Triantos' newest collection features emotionally high energy pieces with it's own expressionistic beauty. The dynamic Splash of Colour II presents the release of positive energy through the combination of strongly saturated colours displaying bold and vibrantly against one another. Each piece has dramatic beauty of its own that uniquely displays movement and dimension.
